

Position Description
Assistant Professor of Management
Charles H. Lundquist College of Business
University of Oregon

Position and Qualifications. The Department of Management in the Lundquist College of Business seeks to fill two tenure-track positions for Fall 2010, one at Open Rank and the second at the Assistant Professor rank. The requirements for the position of Assistant Professor are described here. Excellence in research is of primary importance, and candidates whose research programs link to the College's strategic initiatives in the areas of a) entrepreneurship, technology, and innovation, b) sustainable business practices, c) sports business, and d) securities analysis are of particular interest. Candidates must have completed or nearly completed requirements for the Ph.D. degree and provide evidence of potential teaching and research excellence. The successful applicant will possess the scholarly ability and drive to conduct and publish research in premier journals and the passion to teach with rigor and effectiveness. Teaching responsibilities include courses consistent with the candidate's background and interests, and typically include a mix of required and elective courses.

Management Department. The Lundquist College's Department of Management is a collegial group whose members publish in and serve on the editorial review boards of the top management journals. The department includes two past presidents of the Academy of Management, Rick Mowday and Bill Starbuck, and a number of early career scholars who are demonstrating research excellence. The Department is housed in the environmentally certified Lillis Business Complex, a facility that offers the latest in instructional technology and research support.

The Community. Eugene often appears on lists of the most livable communities in the country. It enjoys the cultural amenities of a larger city, hosting concerts that span the musical spectrum, the world famous Bach Festival, and many other festivals and celebrations. Recreational possibilities abound, ranging from cycling Eugene's extensive network of bicycle paths to hiking picturesque trails to playing local golf courses. Eugene lies within 90 minutes of alpine and Nordic skiing, as well as the scenic Oregon coast.

Application Procedure. Applicants should provide: (1) a vita summarizing education, publication record, service, and professional experience, (2) a statement of research interests, (3) copies of scholarly working papers or publications, and (4) a teaching portfolio including syllabi of courses taught and teaching evaluations. Applicants should arrange to have three letters of reference sent as well. The foregoing materials should be sent by the pertinent party as email attachments in PDF (preferred), or in Microsoft Word to MgmtSearch@LCBmail.uoregon.edu.

Review of applications begins October 1, 2009 and will continue until the position is filled. The University of Oregon is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer committed to cultural diversity and compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act. We invite applications from qualified candidates who share our commitment to diversity.
